HONGKONG, NOVEMBER 8TH, 1905.

As Russia and Japan are now evacuating Manchuria, and neither is likely, for some time to come, to seek occasion for new quarrels, the German Government has resolved to withdraw the superfluous portion of the garrison at Tsintao. In connection with this, and finding that the Chinese Government was prepared to efficiently guard the line of railway from Tsintao to Chinan, the German Government has also arranged to withdraw its guards along the line now no further needed. The whole of this arrangement is doubtless satisfactory to China, who has of late shown a real desire to respect her international obligations. It also seems to be equally creditable to Germany, who has shown a willingness, now that the political aspect seems fair, not to throw an apple of discord into a situation which, for the first time for eight years, seems to be clear of danger. So far so good; everybody is pleased, and it might naturally have been expected that, having removed this last subject of complaint, Baron von Mumm would have been permitted to avail himself of the well-earned leave of absence which was to be the reward. Such has not been the case, for with some strange perversity another subject, with which the first has very little in common, has been imported into the discussion, and the German Minister is ordered to stop a little longer to square up yet another tender subject. It does not yet appear whether the perversity, which would revive a very unpleasant discussion at an inconvenient time, comes from Germany or China, but in any case it seems to come at a somewhat unfortunate period, before the new situation brought about by the cessation of the Russo-Japanese war has had time to declare itself.

It is doubtless true that China has been looking on with more or less resentful feelings to the continued occupation of the foreign Legations in Peking by foreign troops. The right to guard the Legations was imposed on China in consequence of her treacherous conduct in attempting to seize the Legations and their occupants; a crime, as China well knew, at variance with immemorial international practice, and which she has herself, at all periods of her history, considered deserving of condign punishment when she was the complaining party. It is quite true that China has made the first beginning towards an improved position of affairs, and we are willing to acknowledge, with every appearance of reality, still she has only as yet taken her first almost infantile steps, and is yet far from having so far consolidated her institutions as to render a relapse impossible. Another curious feature about the affair is that Germany should appear as taking the lead in a movement having for its object the withdrawal of the Legation guards all round. Doubtless Germany takes to herself immense credit for magnanimity in having been ready to withdraw a portion of her garrison in Shantung, but the presence of her troops on Chinese territory stood on an altogether different basis from that of the Legation guards, and was only defensible in practice on absolute danger, or in case China had refused or neglected to take the necessary steps to protect what was after all her own property, though doubtless under lien to Germany.
At all events the withdrawal of the now unnecessary troops can hardly be said to form a basis for any special consideration from the other Powers; and, after all, the withdrawal of the troops seems to have been effected as much for Germany's own convenience as in pursuit of any ideal consideration of international right on the part of China. We have suggested that the time for making for the withdrawal was particularly inconvenient. While we are willing to acknowledge China's good faith, and that on the whole she is really desirous of entering into the comity of the nations, it is not altogether the case that China is quite out of her troubles, and is altogether a free agent. Rumours such as those which marked the beginning of 1900 have not been altogether absent, and there is still, it is not to be denied, considerable pressure being brought to bear on the Government to force it to go back into the old groove. The recent bomb outrage, even if it were an isolated fact, is yet sufficient evidence to show that there is still a large and a powerful party averse to innovation, and the inability of the Government to trace it to its origin goes far to prove that it is by no means sure of its position. Still more is Germany's attitude in the affair not altogether clear.
Circumstances, it is true, have led up to the removal of the garrisons, which had become practically useless since the cessation of hostilities between Russia and Japan, but they have not altogether led to the abandonment of Germany's policy of seeking to divide and weaken China. The most embarrassing of these is the maintenance of Post Offices all over China which can find no support on any principle of international right or reason. If, as was at one time the case, China had taken no steps to form a post office of her own, or if, after having formed it, she were using it for improper purposes, the interference of Germany, so far as her own or her subjects' postal matters were concerned, might have been called for as a matter of advisability or even necessity. England, at one time, in the absence of any postal arrangements whatever, did at the beginning, as a matter of sheer necessity, undertake the carriage of external postal matter, and its distribution at the open ports. As soon as China was in a position to undertake this, she at once commenced to withdraw gradually, and at no time interfered with the local carriage or distribution of correspondence.
Not so Germany; which not only keeps her post offices at the extremities of her ocean mail routes, but competes with China on her own soil, and receives correspondence and does general postal business all over the empire. It cannot be alleged that she does this to subserve any public interest, while the division of revenue tends to promote inefficiency all round. The German Minister's efforts would be more usefully employed in the general interest in getting rid of this anomaly than in seeking to do a disservice to all alike by introducing another bone of contention in Peking.

Another gunboat has been reflected at Port

Some of the mis-tionaries in Corea are reported Garrison Order No. 596 seems rather hard on our soldiers. It says that voluntary bathing will be discontinued on Nov. 7th—an uncomplimentary hinting at unwilling bathing to follow in the cold weather.

A Tokyo telegram to the N. C. Daily News says:—The two American, one Norwegian, and three German steamers captured after the signing of the Peace Treaty (but before the ratification) have been specially released together with their cargoes.

The Straits Times says:—United States

A meeting of the Legislative Council is called for to-day when the Hon. Attorney-General will move: "Resolved that the resolution regarding the running of workmen's cars

Owing to satisfactory news from the Weihai-

The directors have decided to call up one dollar order to restart the machinery.

A telegram to the N. C. Daily News says:— The Russian cruiser Bojaty, with the Commissioners who are to arrange for the repatriation of Russian prisoners of war, arrived at Nagasaki on Oct. 29. Salutes were exchanged with the Japanese Natsuragi. The Bojaty returned to Vladivostok on the 31st.

Tientsin papers report that Mr. Chang Chien is starting a new company to run steamers on the Yangtze, with a capital of Tls.
1,000,000; and that Mr. Wu Jueph's tannery at Tientsin is now prepared to execute orders, in conjunction with his wool-mill, for all kinds of military and school equipments.

Japanese carpets, which are held in high favour amongst foreigners in Japan are being put on the China market, and bid fair to rival the Tientsin rug. They are made in wool, cotton, jute, or hemp in any design and shape; and being of thick pile are very warm and durable. There are only two factories of note in Japan, and they have executed several orders for the foreign Legations there.

A correspondent of the N. C. Daily News, describing the Chinese Army Manoeuvres, somewhat tones down previous reports. He says there was not enough cavalry to be important, and that some of the tactics were unintelligible to foreign experts. Equipments were good, but artillery too much diversified, four different kinds of ammunition being required. Discipline and training seemed good.
It was still held that the morale in various would be bad.

In the general interest excited over the Tanjong Pagar Docks Arbitration, the harbour scheme for Singapore has dropped somewhat out of the public mind. It is understood, however, says the Singapore Press, that tenders are to be in by January, and that three or four of the most eminent engineering contracting firms including Pearson, Ltd., Lowther Bros., and others are at present represented here in connection with the scheme.

Mr. K. Shimizu, chief (foreign) secretary for the Osaka Han-ni Orphan Asylum in Japan, is spending a month in Hongkong with the object of interesting the charitable in the work of his association. It was established in 1896, to adopt orphans and other destitute children, to educate them, and to teach them to earn a living. The war has increased the number of these requiring the aid of the institute, and special appeals are therefore being made for help. The Emperor and Empress are subscribers. Further information may be had from No. 18, Connaught Road.

The Hongkong correspondent of the Cadence, reporting the Linchow massacre, says:—The American and British residents of Hongkong and Canton are worked up to high pitch, and are convinced that America will demand severest reparation. The Viceroy at Canton whose rule extends over the district in which Linchow is situated, is the man who insulted Secretary Taft when he went to Canton.
He pleaded illness and sent his Secretary of War and party. He is a pronounced hater of Americans, and an abettor of the boycott.

An American paper says:—Uncle Sam is patient and long suffering, but when it comes to mobbing an admiral and stoning his escort, there is a time when "patience" ceases to be a virtue. It was the intervention of John Hay that saved China from partition by the powers in 1899, and America has been China's guardian angel in international complications ever since.
If she is compelled to step in and establish order at this time, it may cost China the best friend she has had, and the results will be very different from those desired by the instigators of the uprising.

On Monday afternoon the crew of the Chan Hi Li fishing junk received severe injuries through the explosion of a dynamite charge.
The crew consisted of a man, a woman and a boy, eight years of age. Their fishing ground was the expanse of water between Chung Chow and Green Island. As the man, Chan Suk, was letting off a charge, it exploded, blowing off his right hand at the wrist. The woman and child, who were standing by looking on, received injuries to the head and body. As soon after the occurrence as possible the sufferers were removed to the Tung Wah Hospital, where their wounds received attention.

The Governor at Ngankang has apologised to Admiral Train, and punished the ringleader of the attack. It appears that only one No. 6 shot, fired at a distance of 80 yards, struck the woman in the neck, barely penetrating the skin. The whole trouble was caused by her brother-in-law, a village bully, who has now "eaten sorrow" at the hands of the Governor at Ngankang. The two revolver shots which were subsequently fired, one of the Chinese being hit in the wrist and another in the groin, undoubtedly saved the lives of two American officers, who were being attacked with big fish-spears with barbed points, and the timely appearance of the marines prevented any further trouble.

Cornay Grain used to tell of the Bab Balladist, Mr. Gilbert, that he was once on a visit to a friend. On the morning after his arrival he was chatting with his host before breakfast, when he became suddenly aware that the family prayers were about to be read. The household filed in, and the distinguished guest knelt down on the spot where he happened to be standing.
Looking up, he caught his host's eyes fixed on him with a warning glance, which he, however, failed to read aright. The service began:
"Almighty Father, who hast made all men alike" (more telegraphic glances), "rich and poor, gentle and simple." Then, unable to contain himself any longer, the host called out: "Gilbert, you are kneeling among the servants!"

M. S. BAXTER SCHOOLS.

ANNUAL SALE OF WORK.

Yesterday the annual sale of work in aid of the M. S. Baxter Schools took place in the City Hall. This long established institution extending back over a period of twenty years and more, has invariably enjoyed a large measure of public support, and yesterday's sale proved no exception. The thirteen stalls were arranged round the sides and down the centre of the hall, and as each was laden with a profusion of fancy goods, attractively displayed, the result was very pleasing to the eye. In charge of the various stalls were:

Mrs. Bateson Wright, Mrs. Lammert, Mrs.
Herbert Lammert and Mrs. Sell.
Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Hutton and Mrs. Ross.
Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Colgrove, Miss Hazeland.
Mrs. Chatham, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Lambell.
Mrs. Peter, Mrs. Turner and Miss Berkeley.
Lady Berkeley and the Misses Berkeley.
Mrs. Bell, Miss Penruddock, Miss Blair.
Mrs. Lums, Mrs. Goetz, and Mrs. Fuchs.
Miss Dowley, Mrs. Irving and Mrs. Davis.
Mrs. Hancock, Miss Hancock and Mrs.
Saunders.
Mrs. Swan, Mrs. Tooker and Mrs. Bodeley.
Mrs. Pritchard and others.
Refreshment stall—Mrs. Thompson, Mrs.
Graham Stewart, Mrs. Dickson, Mrs. Craikshank.
Grab Bags—Miss Armstrong and the Misses Seth.
The sale was well attended and among the patrons was H.E. the Governor.

THE SHADOW OF THE CROWN AGENTS.

A correspondent asks us what are the difficulties we referred to last week as likely to arise in the administration of the Singapore Docks by the local Government. We cannot do better than reproduce a portion of the letter on this subject which was dispatched from Singapore on May 18 last by our travelling correspondent and appeared in C.I. of June 28.

"The whole question of the betterment of the harbour and wharfage accommodation is a purely local one, and if the mistakes of the past are not to be repeated, the management must be placed entirely in the hands of local men, who alone understand the needs of the port. I understand that the present proposal is to appoint a local Board drawn from among the mercantile community.
This is a very good idea, provided expert technical men are engaged under the Board.
Another important point to be considered is whether the Crown Agents shall be allowed to control the purchase of stores, engage men, and draw commissions. If the Crown Agents are allowed to have anything whatever to do with the matter Singapore might as well let the present state of affairs continue. The Colony cannot afford to pay commissions to the Crown Agents, nor can it afford to have repeated here the Colombo tug boat fiasco.
As business men, the new Board will know how to get the best value for their money. If the Board is to do its work thoroughly, it should be insisted upon, before each individual member takes office, that it should be entirely free from domination by the Crown Agents. With the force of the construction of the Singapore-Kranji Railway always before their eyes one has hopes of the new Board showing a bold front to the Crown Agents."

Some £200,000 will probably be spent on works and material for the improvement of the docks and harbour in the near future.—

EMPEROR DOWAGER'S BIRTHDAY.
A great banquet was held to-day at the Pa-Chi-Hin-Kuan in honour of the Empress Dowager's birthday. Numerous invitations had been sent to the prominent members of the foreign community. Two gunboats were placed at the disposal of the foreign guests. About thirty foreigners responded to the invitation, and a special landing was erected in front of the Pa-Chi-Hin-Kuan. The guests were received by a guard of honour, and the regimental trumpeters and drummers, who played an appropriate air as the guests marched through the entrance court towards the Reception Hall, where they were received by provincial officials. Tiffin was served in a lavishly decorated dining-room. The table was double "T" shaped and laid out in foreign style. The scene was gorgeous with native and foreign uniforms. H. E. the Tarter-General presided, Viceroy Shum being unavoidably absent owing to illness.

The following guests attended the Banquet: Mr. Huygen (Consul for Holland), Mr. Solange, Teyssier (Acting Consul for France), Dr. Walter (German Vice Consul), Mr. Zundel (Consul for Mexico), Commissioner Mayers, Deputy-Commissioner Russell, Dr. Davenport, Dr. Dupuy, Dr. Shelby, Dr. K. Zlag, Professor Leach, Professor Martel, Professor Heinberg, Mr. Dupuy, Attache of the French Consulate, Mr. Wyon (of the Canton Mint), Mr. Lupton, Mr. Bent, Mr. Sweeney, Kuler's Correspondent, Mr. Lindt, Adviser to the Canton-Hankow Railway Co., Lt. Noble, Commander of the Moehren, Lt. de Vaisseau Jeannd, Commander of the Argus, Mr. Ogawa (Professor of Japanese at the Imperial College), the Director of the Telephone Co., and the Japanese Military Officers and Instructors of the Military College.

Amongst the prominent military and civil officials present were: H. E. the Tarter-General, H. E. the Provincial Treasurer, H. E. the ex-Hopgo of Canton, Owen Taotai, Wei Taotai, and Magistrate Shueh, foreign secretaries of His Excellency Viceroy Shum-Yu Magistrate, Admiral Cheong, General Li and other official heads of the different Government institutions of Canton. Dr. Walter proposed the toast of the Emperor and Empress Dowager and called for three cheers and a tiger. Owen Taotai responded, thanking those present for honouring the function by their presence. In the course of his speech he mentioned the departure of the Special Mission as a sign that Their Majesties were anxious to introduce reforms, and that the abolition of promotions through the literary examination, hitherto resorted to, showed the earnestness of purpose of Their Majesties to modernize China. Owen Taotai asked the Chinese officials to drink to the health and happiness of the Foreign Sovereigns and to the prosperity of all the nations represented at the banquet.

SUPREME COURT.

Tuesday, 7th November.

IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

BEFORE MR. A. G. WISE (PUISSE JUDGE).

A WIDOW'S CLAIM.

Wong Cheung Shi and Wong Hing Cheong for $1,000, basing her claim on the loss occasioned through defendant detaining and still keeping from her a partnership book in which were entries relating to her deceased husband's connection with the firm of which defendant was manager. The business was carried on at 248 Des Vaux Road. Before her husband, who was a dealer in books, died he appointed her as his executrix, but when she applied to the defendant for the partnership book he said he wanted to look at it and promised to send it to her later; and repeated application was made for its return without avail.

Mr. W. J. Daniels appeared for plaintiff and Mr. D. V. Stevenson for defendant. After hearing evidence, his Lordship gave judgment for defendant with costs.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Referring to the competition in the shipping trade which is likely to arise when the Japanese transports are released, the Straits Times remarks that the Japanese have already proved themselves formidable rivals in that they have run their steamship lines more cheaply and have captured lower freights in many instances. The Japan Chronicle says: "Our contemporary is mistaken in saying that Japanese vessels are run more cheaply than foreign vessels. On the contrary, an article which was recently reproduced in our columns from a veritable journal bewailed that it cost more to run a Japanese than a foreign steamer, and warned its compatriots against the dangers of uneconomical working." Dealing with another part of the same subject, the Straits Times says: "There is a large body of working Britishers in the East, who have reason also to regard with perturbation the trend of events, and engineers who have hitherto found employment on Japanese, Chinese, and other native-owned steamers, but who now fear with a good show of reason that they will find themselves ousted by more cheaply engaged Japanese holding the necessary qualifications. During the early stages of the war no mate or there were hardly sufficient of their numbers to meet the calls of the accelerated transport services of the belligerents. But now, when all that has passed away, things in the shipping trade are from their point of view very bad, and there were more of them than unemployed all over the East than at the present moment. To them the ones 'glorious East' seems to hold out prospects of a less and less gorgeous hue."

We do not remember the time when the approaching extinction of the foreign marine officer in the East was not predicted. Yet, as a matter of fact, there are more such officers employed in Eastern waters than ever.

POLICE COURT.

Tuesday 7th November.

BEFORE MR. F. A. HAZELAND (FIRST POLICE MAGISTRATE).

DISORDERLY BEHAVIOUR.

The remand case was continued in which three natives were charged with behaving in a disorderly manner while proceeding to West Point on tramcar No. 16. The second and third defendants were further charged with refusing to pay their fares.

The evidence showed that the defendants boarded the car at the Central Market. On stopping at Whitty Street the second and third defendants paid for their tickets, but the first refused. When the conductor threatened to give him in charge, however, he paid, but proceeded to behave in a disorderly manner. A ticket inspector, approaching at the time, and not wishing to stop the tram, took the defendant along to explain his conduct. The second and third defendants then boarded the car without being asked. The conductor ordered them to pay their fares, but as they refused, they were given in charge with the first defendant.

The defendants stated that the conductor who demanded their fares had not a badge on.

His Worship (to Inspector Collett)—Have the tram conductors got a badge?

Inspector Collett—Yes, your Worship. And as each conductor carries a ticket punch the passenger can have no doubt that he is the man to pay.

His Worship—Is there much of this going on?

Inspector Collett—There has been considerable trouble with Chinese passengers who refuse to pay their fares until near the end of their journey.

His Worship fined each of the defendants $10, the alternative being one month's imprisonment.

A POST OFFICE PROSECUTION.

Ip Kan, shopkeeper of Wing Kat Street, was proceeded against by Mr. E. C. Lewis, Assistant Postmaster General, for infringing the exclusive rights of the Postmaster-General by transmitting correspondence from the Colony by other than the Post Office.

The evidence proved that the defendant received two letters, and that he was despatching them, with others, to Macao by a coolie in his employ.

The defendant said he found the letters on the counter of his shop, and put them in the letter rack. When the collector called he took them as well as other letters which were to be transmitted through the Post Office.

Mr. Lewis informed his Worship that the defendant's shop was not licensed, but he used the license of another postal long. Many unlicensed shops acted as postal hongs, but the Post Office authorities were now in communication with the Registrar General to arrange for taking over the control of licensed shops.

His Worship held the evidence proved, and ordered the defendant to pay a fine of $50, in default, two months' imprisonment.

WILFUL MURDER.

Wong Yuk was charged with killing and murdering one Lo Chi at No. 8 Yee Yick Lane, West Point, on the 25th October.

Defendant admitted being in the house on the night of the alleged murder, but denied the charge.

Inspector Collett stated that the accused and a number of other men, who were in the house on the night of the murder, threatened to assault the deceased. The accused set upon him, and the deceased endeavoured to escape by crossing to the verandah of the next house. In attempting this he stepped on to some bamboo supports, three of which gave way and the deceased fell to the ground, and later succumbed to his injuries.

Assistant Engineer H. E. Haggard, of the Public Works Department, put in a plan of the houses 6 and 8 Yee Yick Lane. He said the width of the verandah of the houses was one foot eleven inches; the height of the balustrading on the verandah was three feet four inches; and the height of the brackets on the verandah of No. 6, from the second ground step, was 29 feet one inch.

It Sam, declared, said she was the mistress of the Sun Hop Fan brothel, recently of No. 8 Yee Yick Lane. She first saw the deceased one or two nights before the quarrel on the 25th October, and the night of the quarrel was the first occasion on which the defendant had visited her house. The deceased arrived first, and the defendant entered with seven other men about an hour later. The defendant and his friends entered the deceased's cubicle, and a fight ensued. The deceased ran away and defendant chased him to the verandah. Shortly afterwards she heard that a man had fallen down to the street.

After taking for their evidence his Worship adjourned the case.

BEFORE MR. C. D. MCLBOURNE (ACTING SECOND POLICE MAGISTRATE).

FALSE SCALES.

The master of a general dealers shop, at 7 Wyshing Street, was charged by Inspector Withers with using defective scales in his shop.

The offence was proved and his Worship ordered the defendant to pay a fine of $100.

EXTRADITION.

Tai Hau, on remand, appeared to answer the charge of armed robbery in the Yuenan District, China. The prisoner has been detained in goal since the 17th October.

A Chinese Lieutenant applied to his Worship for another remand, as the evidence had not yet arrived.

Is granting the application his Worship informed the lieutenant that it was necessary to hasten matters, as the alleged robber could not be detained in custody any longer without some reasonable excuse.

PARIS.

Paris, 29th September.

WORKMEN'S PHYSIOLOGICAL CONDITIONS.

A most interesting as well as exhaustive inquiry has just been made by M. Imbert, Professor of the Montpellier Faculty of Medicine, relating to the influence of fatigue on workmen, and the part it plays in connection with accidents. In his work the Professor has been ably seconded by M. Mestre who is a factory inspector in the department of the Hérault, united in the South of France. From their joint investigations, we are able to obtain some very clear and important indications respecting the physiological conditions during the hours of labour. Thus, we learn that the number of accidents increases progressively hour by hour during the first half-day; that after the rest at midday, after déjeuner in other words, the number of accidents is notably less than in the last hour of the second half-day.

The course of the second half-day accidents again become, from hour to hour, progressively more numerous; and that the maximum number of accidents towards the end of the second half-day is notably higher than the corresponding maximum in the morning. The influence of the workmen's fatigue on the so-called productions of accidents stands out clearly from these observations, while it is easy to understand how this comes about when it is borne in mind that with fatigue the attention rapidly diminishes and disappears. The conclusion to be formed is, that in order to produce a diminution in the number of accidents, it would be sufficient to intercalate in the middle of each half-day a period of repose, naturally not so long as that at midday, but the length of which remains to be determined. In fact, one would only have to apply to the manual labour of adults the measures which for a long time have been put into practice for children as regards their intellectual labour. Though this theory may suit in France, it is hardly likely to commend itself at once, at least, to the practical minds of Englishmen. While the Englishman's theory is:—"Not too long hours, but the maximum of effort while you are at it," the Frenchman does not mind so much if he starts work fairly early, and keeps on till seven or eight o'clock at night on condition that he has at least two hours for déjeuner or luncheon, and a rest in the afternoon.

THE BOIS DE BOULEGNE THREATENED.

However audacious the Municipal authorities may be, they will think twice before they go as far as to deliver the beautiful Bois de Boulogne—the favourite lung of Paris—over to builders. Now that the demolition of the absolutely useless fortifications is progressing favourably, builders maintain that they are in immediate want of more room to carry out their scheme for the creation of a greater Paris—hence, they have for some time been threatening to invade the Bois. Will the Municipality side with Parisians, and forbid such "consecrated" ground from being interfered with, or will they prove weak and allow itself to be tempted by the precisely offers of speculative builders?

That's the question. True, the Municipality could practically get any money it wanted for sites bordering the charming Bois de Boulogne. Municipal councillors hardly care to run the risk of the unpopularity that such a scheme would bring upon its author. The idea of doing to as much as suggest that the splendid Bois should be curtailed to suit the designs of capitalists in search of building lots is a most infamous one in the opinion of most Parisians. Fewer people are as fond of flowers and verdure as the light-hearted inhabitants of the "City of Light"; with Parisians alone, it is a veritable growing passion. No wonder that public indignation is so great, and that he who would be bold enough to threaten to encroach on the favourite "lung" of this capital well deserves execration, if nothing worse. There are actually over 100,000 trees along the Boulevards, avenues, and in the gardens, squares and lovely parks of Paris. These are exclusive of those in the Bois de Boulogne, and the Bois de Vincennes, and the cemeteries. As will be seen, these alone represent a fairly large-sized forest. These 100,000 trees are composed of 25,000 planes, 10,000 elms, 10,000 varnish trees, 17,000 chestnut trees, 5,500 acacias, 4,000 false acacias, 2,200 lime trees and 3,700 acacias. This mass of verdure is spread over an area comprising six parks, sixty three squares and gardens, and twenty seven kilometres of avenues, and boulevards. Were these trees to be placed in a double row as close to each other as their branches would allow, they would form an avenue fifty five kilometres long. If to the 100,000 trees we add the shrubs, spindle-trees, rose and other bushes, we have a line 600 kilometres long!

CONVENIENCES OF POST OFFICE EMPLOYERS. Meetings continue to be held right and left by postmen, telegraph clerks, and telephone girls, indicating that the agitation is anything but over. Matters appear to be getting more and more serious every day, so much so that one would not be surprised to hear of the Postmaster-General losing his portfolio, in addition to going out of his mind through perpetual worry and complaints. The Minister can give no satisfactory explanation as to recent delays—therefore he has become so unpopular with the masses. Reforms in the post office are urgently needed, these have been promised long ago, but are still conspicuous by their absence, which adds to the gravity of the situation. After the sorters, the telegraph clerks, and the telephone girls, it is now the turn of the humble postman, or factor, to speak his mind on the subject. Some 200 letter-carriers assembled at the Labour Exchange a few nights ago, and protested in very strong terms against the miserable conditions under which—like the rest of their colleagues of both sexes—they are employed by the State. One of the main grievances is the insufficient remuneration they receive. Thus, in Paris—where they are paid better than anywhere else—a postman commences with 1,100 francs, and in due course gets 2,000 francs. Beyond this latter modest sum he cannot hope to get. As Paris is a very costly place to live in, one can easily imagine the struggle of a married postman, endeavouring to get sufficient food each day for his wife and children at this rate. The wages of auxiliary factors in the country never exceed 500 francs per annum. How can a man, let alone anyone else, keep himself on such a miserable pittance? Yet, the authorities wonder why the employees are dissatisfied! A general strike in all departments is spoken of. Both men and women are resolved to let the angry public know the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, to excite pity, and bring about a more humane system.

TOKEN OF WEALTH.

Dr. Johnson maintained that "frugality was the daughter of prudence, the sister of temperance and the parent of liberty." This coincides admirably with the character of the French who are always putting by if only a few sous for a rainy day. This explains why France is naturally a rich country, and why her wealth is so coveted by Russia that has up to the present abused her generosity, until she can do so no longer. When France had to pay the enormous ransom demanded by Germany in 1870-71, she had no need to go round borrowing from her neighbours. The millions were paid almost at once out of her internal resources, which caused the late Iron Chancellor, Prince Bismarck, to feel sorry he had not, like Oliver Twist, asked for more. Is France really wealthy? These that still doubt the fact, will do well to glance at the list of inheritances declared last year, and issued by the Ministry of Finance, in view of the succession duties levied by the State. Thus, of 381,601 estates registered as changing owners, estates registered as changing owners, 311 amounted to between £50,000 and £200,000 each; 123 were between £200,000 and £500,000; thirty three were from £500,000 to £1,000,000; eleven were from £1,000,000 to £2,000,000 and three estates averaged more than £2,000,000 each. The three large estates in the last category, which together totalled over £10,000,000, were those of the late M. Marini, the famous engineer—inventor of the printing machine which bears his name and the founder of the Paris Journal; Baron Arthur de Rothschild, of the famous banking house; and the late Queen Isabella of Spain. The grand total of all the estates which paid the succession duty during 1904 was £210,952,256. France is, therefore, a wealthy country, and is proud of the same—because equally economical.

AMERICANS AND MUSIC.

In the course of an instructive article contributed by Mr. Maurice Grau—the well-known American manager—to the Temps, relating to the stage and dramatic art in America, the following remark was made: "That American composers are chiefly remarkable for their complete ignorance of music, and that American high-class audiences go to the theatre more with the object of being seen and remarked than because they have any real love for the play." Rather unkind. Further, Mr. Grau declares that "no great artist has ever been a failure in the United States." He proves the truth of his statement by the assertion that although he lost 100,000 francs in London with the Comedie Francaise, he got it all back in Chicago with Sandow.

A LUCKY WOMAN.

Considerable shrewdness has been displayed by Mme. Hofer, the lucky vicairerie who recently won 100,000 francs with a lottery ticket. Being a keen woman of business, she has kept all letters and applications of all sorts poured in upon her. The only donation she made was to the Fresh Air Fund of a Paris paper thus enabling three hundred little ones to go to the sea-side. The other letters, etc., she intends to publish—without giving any names—out of curiosity. Quite a small army of admirers have proposed marriage, but she intends to remain single for some years still and go about discharging her duties as an army nurse as if nothing had happened. The money is in the Bank of France, so safe for when she wants it.

C.M.S. ANNIVERSARY AT NORWICH.

THE YELLOW PERIL.

The following report appeared in the Norwich Eastern News:—"In connection with the anniversary meetings of the Norfolk and Norwich Auxiliary of the Church Missionary Society, an address was on Sept. 25 given in the C.E.Y.M.S. Lecture Hall by Bishop Hoare of Victoria, Hongkong, on 'The Yellow Peril.' The Ven. Archdeacon Pellham presided, and there was a large attendance. Among the present being Canon de Chair, Rev. W. H. Cooke, Rev. S. Smith, Rev. J. Callis, Rev. C. W. Churidge, Mr. C. Evans, Mr. Hinde, Mr. E. G. Taghavan, Mr. Haves and others.

The Chairman said he was glad to see so large an attendance, and he hoped it might be regarded as an evidence that more interest was being taken in missionary work in Norwich. The speaker made a little more of the courage of their convictions, and not to be afraid to show that they took a deep interest in this great and missionary work. The day had gone by when missionary work was treated with contempt and ridicule. The missionaries themselves had made it quite impossible for people to speak of missionary work in the way they used to do thirty years ago, but though the days of ridicule had gone by, the days of indifference were still with us, and that was what they had to fight against. There were numbers of professing Christians, people who did not care in the least about the work of God in distant parts of the world simply because they did not know what was being done. The Bishop of Victoria had laboured in China for thirty years, and if there was any man who could tell us about the state of the people of China, especially from a missionary point of view, it was he. (Applause.)
